The Year that Started Well and... Then Went All to [Heck]

Greetings of the Season of Light, despite everything. We are all healthy (so far so good at least) and busy. “Pivoting” to a lot of digital content at work has kept Betty on her toes. Steve stays busy as ever in retirement doing this and that, and M.E. (who is working from home indefinitely) has come East for the whole holiday season.

The featured photo is us all in Guadalajara, Mexico on a fantastic family trip we took in February. Little did we know it would be our last trip of any distance for the rest of the year! We’re all looking forward to traveling again someday in the not too distant future.

Meanwhile, here’s hoping for all good things in 2021. Follow Betty’s adventures on her blog: www.roundbarnpress.com
